"Next Generation Learning and Assessment"

The Kentucky League for nursing is pleased to present a two-day conference for nurse educators. The focus of this year's event will be "Next Generation Learning and Assessment." Dr. Tim Bristol will be presenting the two-day conference. The National Council of State Boards of Nursing, the Kentucky Board of Nursing, along with other local presenters will also be providing educational sessions for conference attendees.

This year's conference objectives will focus on teaching strategies to implement in both classroom and clinical settings. Strategies to assist clinical judgement via simulation and clinical, connecting the dots between classroom learning and clinical application, and assessment strategies that measure clinical judgement. As most are aware, the NCLEX Exam is focusing on measuring clinical judgment to ensure safe nursing practice of entry level graduates. You do not want to miss the informative conference! As educators we all want the best results for our patients, students, and programs.

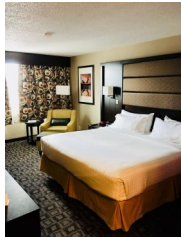

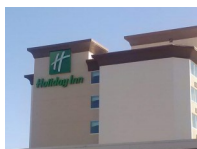

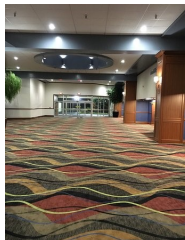

The location of the conference will be at the Holiday Inn Hurstbourne in beautiful Louisville, Kentucky. The conference social outing will once again be a trip to the Derby Dinner Playhouse. This year's presentation will be "Anything Goes!" This is always an exciting evening for participants, and the buffet and deserts are absolutely delicious. Please join us for both an informative and relaxing conference. We are excited to see all of our members in attendance.

Conference Objectives:

- Demonstrate teaching strategies to implement in both the classroom and clinical setting.
